One evening David returned from school with an empty stomach. He was feeling hungry. He felt tired of waiting for dinner time to come so he ate two pieces of cookies. His mother had prepared chicken rice for dinner and David had two servings of it. An hour after dinner, he wanted more food and started searching the kitchen for something to eat.

By this time, his parents had gone out and his sister was doing her homework in the room. He knew that if he was hungry, he could only eat the bag of biscuits which were on the dining table. However, that night, he decided to look into the freezer. His eyes twinkled when he saw a huge tub of ice cream. Quickly, he grabbed a spoon and tucked into the ice cream. He ate one spoonful after another till there was nothing left in the tub.

Half an hour later, he felt dizzy with a sharp pain in his stomach. He informed his sister who quickly called their parents. She told them that David was not feeling too well. When their parents came home, they saw David looking very pale. It was then when he confessed that he had eaten too much ice cream.

From that day on, David learnt never to be too greedy.
