It was Boxing Day, the day after Christmas. It was the day where most places would be having their after-Christmas sale! My best friend, Shannon, stayed over at my place the night before so that we could head to the big shopping mall downtown to get good bargains together. We promised each other to wake up at six as we needed to catch the first train. Most shops in downtown would be opened at eight the next morning.

When we woke up that day, it was already eight! The alarm clock had not rung! We jumped off the bed and quickly got dressed. We caught a ride from my father to the train station. We dashed into the first train that we saw at the platform. Before we could sigh a relief, we found out that we had boarded the train heading the North, instead of the South, when the announcement was made! We lost patience with each other and started bickering until we realised that everyone was staring at us. Our faces turned as red as a beetroot. We quickly alighted the moment we arrived at the next station and ran for the train on the opposite direction.

The train heading South was very crowded but we managed to squeeze ourselves into the last cabin. When we finally arrived at our destination, we did not see any long queue outside the shopping mall. We walked to the main entrance and saw a big sign at the door that read, "Dear Patrons, there is a major power failure so the mall will be closed today. Please come back again tomorrow. Sorry for the inconvenience caused." The security guard waved us off. Shannon called her mother and she came to pick us up.

What an unfortunate day to remember for my best friend and me!

Section I: Comprehension Open-ended (5 x 2 mark)

Read the passage carefully. Answer the questions in complete sentences.

It was a bright Sunday morning. Michael and Lily went to their favourite bookshop. They had saved enough money for the past few weeks to buy their favourite books and board games.

When they got to the bookshop, they went straight to look for their respective books and games. However, after half an hour later, they could not find what they wanted and left the bookshop sadly. As they walked, they soon found themselves at the coffeeshop. ^{There} They were many people eating there. Some of the empty tables had birds picking the leftovers. They waited until there was a clean empty table.

Both of them ordered one plate of fried rice, one plate of fried mee, two glasses of orange juice and one bowl of iced jelly to share. After eating, they headed home happily. While Lily was watching television, she suddenly felt an acute pain in her stomach. Soon, she felt like vomiting. Her mother panicked and quickly took her to the nearest clinic.

At the clinic, they met Michael and his mother. Michael was suffering from the same symptoms as Lily. The doctor diagnosed them with food poisoning as they might have eaten some contaminated food. The doctor gave them medicine and advised them to be careful of what they would eat the next time.

Michael and Lily recovered a few days later and vowed that they would not eat at that coffeeshop ever again.

50. What made Michael and Lily head to their favourite bookshop on a Sunday morning?

51. Which sentence in the passage tells you that a few tables were not clean?
