Section G: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Yazmin was watching television one hot afternoon when she heard the excited barking of her dog outside the house. Initially, she thought Brownie was just trying to attract her attention. Yazmin ignored the barking and continued her activity. However, the barkings got louder.

Yazmin knew that Brownie would do this whenever he was punished. He had done 5 so on previous occasions. Yazmin had fallen for his trick and brought him into the house so that he would stop barking. This time, however, she would keep him outside until he realised his mistake of chewing on her shoes.

As time passed, Brownie's barking grew more aggressive. The noise was deafening and Yazmin was getting annoyed. Her brother, who was studying in his room, 10 was shouting for Brownie to be quiet. Curious, Yazmin's mother rushed out of the house to take a look at Brownie. Just then, Yazmin heard a loud shriek. She rushed out of the house and the first thing she saw was her mother standing like a statue on the lawn, looking pale and frightened.

A snake was coiled close to Yazmin's mother's feet, all set to attack her at the 15 slightest movement. Brownie was about a metre away, still barking loudly. Yazmin stood rooted to the ground, feeling helpless. All of a sudden, Brownie pounced on the snake.
However, the snake managed to slither away.

Yazmin immediately ran to Brownie and gave him a tight hug. He had risked his life to save her mother. Yazmin realised that dogs were very loyal animals. Feeling proud, 20 Brownie wagged his tail and followed Yazmin into the house.

Section H: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Dear Diary,

I am tired but I need to pen my thoughts down. Today, my class went for a learning journey. It was meant to be a fun trip but it did not turn out so for me.

We went on a hike to Bukit Timah Hill. Halfway through the long journey, I stopped. I just could not go on any further. I wanted to stay behind but my classmate, Chloe, kept pulling me along. I looked at her, eyes narrowing. Why must she always be so enthusiastic? 5

Left with no choice, and with heavy footsteps, most of us in the class dragged ourselves up the hill with the teacher. However, Chloe was still as energetic as a puppy. Unlike us, she was not even panting! It must be those long-distance running and swimming sessions she always has after school. She has long slender legs and looks like an athlete. I am envious of her and see her as a role model. 10

After what felt like an eternity, we finally reached the peak. The view from the top of the hill was not as fantastic as I had expected. Anyway, I was in so much agony that I could not enjoy much of it. I dropped onto the ground, moaning.

Chloe was the only one, besides my teacher, taking scenic photographs at the hilltop. The rest of us did not bother as we were thoroughly exhausted. With perspiration trickling down my forehead and into my eyes, my vision blurred and I squinted. Chloe saw me wiping the sweat off my forehead and offered me some water. "Plain water had never tasted so sweet!" I had exclaimed as I took a sip and thanked her. 20

What a day it had been! I am so glad to be home, sitting on my rocking chair and enjoying my hot cup of tea while writing this.

Yours truly,
Sherenne
