SECTION E: COMPREHENSION (10 x 1m = 10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Dear Diary,

This morning, my school organised a Charity Drive. The pupils set up several stalls at the canteen. As I was a Discipline Monitor, I was given a duty at the canteen. I had to maintain orderliness and ensure that there was no rough play in the canteen. My best friend, Mariam, had to remind the pupils to return the crockery and cutlery and maintain cleanliness in the canteen.

There was a stall that caught my eye. It was manned by the Primary 5 and 6 prefects. The Primary 5 prefects were selling brand new school bags, calculators and unused assessment books donated by some parents. The Primary 6 prefects were teaching balloon sculpting and Mosaic Art for a fee. All the proceeds from the stall would go to the needy and handicapped residents of Sunshine Home.

The Charity Drive ended at 4 pm. All the pupils helped to clean up the canteen. The teachers carried the unsold items to the storeroom and kept the proceeds in the office. This event had certainly inculcated the spirit of teamwork in the pupils. They learnt to be cooperative and resilient. All right, I have to stop writing. I have not finished my homework and I have to go to bed by 10 pm.

SECTION F: COMPREHENSION (5 X 2m = 10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

It was an extremely hot day. Ah Huat, a poor farmer, and his wife were toiling on the hillside, digging and weeding the soil in between rows of yams and sweet potatoes. They had left their one-month-old baby daughter, who was well-wrapped up, under the shade of a large rain tree.

Suddenly, the couple heard the loud squawk of a bird, followed by the shrill cry of a baby. Looking up in alarm, they saw a large eagle flying off with a bundle in its cruel claws. Panic-stricken, Ah Huat's wife ran to the spot where her baby was sleeping peacefully a while ago.

"Oh, no!" she cried, "Our baby is gone!" The poor woman sank to the ground and wailed in sorrow. Ah Huat stared at his wife and was paralysed with shock.

Weeks passed but their efforts to search for their baby were in vain. One day, while Ah Huat was travelling to town to sell his vegetables, he saw a notice stuck on a tree: A baby had been found and the finder was looking for the baby's parents.

Without hesitation, Ah Huat went to look for the person who had put up the notice. He was a hunter. He listened in amazement as Ah Huat related how an eagle had carried his baby away. Quietly, he went into his room and came out with a baby in his arms. "She must be yours," he said kindly " I shot the eagle and caught this precious bundle just in time.”

Ah Huat saw his baby and was overwhelmed with joy. Thankful for his help, Ah Huat invited the hunter to his house for dinner. That night, the farmer and his wife were the happiest people in the village.

Answer these questions. Write your answers in complete sentences.

40. What was the baby doing when her parents were working?

41. What first alerted the couple to the presence of a bird?

42. Which sentence in the story tells you that Ah Huat was also terrified to find the baby missing?

43. How did the hunter inform the public about the lost baby?

44. What did the hunter do that saved Ah Huat's baby?
