Section D: Comprehension MCQ (5 x 2 marks each = 10 marks)

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow it.

"Are you Miss Thomson?" the hotel staff asked as I got out of the taxi.

"Yes, I am."

"Mr Smith is already here. He's been here for over an hour, madam."

5

It was almost nine o'clock as I made my way to the lobby of the hotel. A man was waiting for me there. He was seated on a sofa and had his back to me. He shuffled his feet on the carpeted floor and looked at his watch repeatedly. When he saw me, he did not look too pleased.

"Is this all you have?" he asked, as he stared at me intently. He was obviously referring to my baggage which weighed well over fifteen kilograms. I dragged it along as best as I could although my hands were red and sore. He quickly got up from his seat and signalled to me to hand the baggage to him. Instantly, he relieved me of my burden and I heaved a sigh of relief.

"How far is Clara's house from this hotel?" I asked as he shut the door of the taxi.

"Fifty kilometres from here," he replied. "We'll be there by ten o'clock tonight." He gave the taxi driver the directions and we were off to Clara's.

20

The journey seemed like eternity. Strangely enough, I could not sleep even though I was tired. It was not Mr Smith's temperament that disturbed me. My thoughts were on Clara. What was she like and would it be easy to teach her and discipline her? The only thing I knew about her was that she had been orphaned at the tender age of five. Since then, she had never uttered a word to anyone.

25

I hoped Clara would take to me. It was my first assignment. I could not fail. I must not. I was prepared to do whatever I could to change that poor girl's life.

For each question from 26 to 30, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Make your choice (1, 2, 3 or 4). Shade the correct oval (1, 2, 3 or 4) on the Optical Answer Sheet.

- (1) kept him waiting
- (2) red and sore hands

Section J: Comprehension (7 x 2 marks each = 14 marks)

Read the passage below and answer questions 64 to 70.

It was already a quarter past nine as Mary hurried into the big block of offices where she was going to work. Her bus had crawled through the dense city traffic, making her a few minutes late for her very first job. As Mary quickened her pace, she resolved to leave home earlier the next day.

Once inside the building, she had to wait again. This time it was for the lift to take her up to the sixth floor. When she finally reached the door marked 'King's Holding Private Limited', she knocked rather nervously and waited. There was no reply. She listened hard and could hear voices talking behind the door. Mustering up her courage, she opened the door and went in.

Although it was the same office she had come to during her interview with Mr King two weeks before, somehow it looked quite different that morning. All the employees were standing about, chatting and eating. At the far end of the room, a man must have just told a funny story for there was a loud burst of laughter just as Mary entered. For a moment, she thought that they were laughing at her.

Then one of the men looked at his watch and clapped his hands twice. Immediately, they all went to their desks and within seconds, everyone was busy working. Mary was taken aback for a while. Eventually, she went up to the man who was sitting at the desk nearest to her and explained that this was her first day in the office.

Hardly looking up from his work, the man told her to take a seat near him as Mr King would arrive any moment soon. Mary would find out later that he always arrived promptly in the office at 9:35 a.m. That was why his staff knew precisely when to start work.
